1) Purpose and application

NextEd group Limited (ACN 105 012 066) (Company) and all its subsidiary entities are committed to a culture of compliance, ethical behaviour and good corporate governance and has created this policy to encourage individuals to report wrongdoing where they genuinely believe it has occurred.

The purpose of this policy is to ensure that a person who reports wrongdoing in good faith (a 'whistleblower') can do so on a confidential basis, without fear of reprisal, dismissal, or other discriminatory treatment.

This policy applies to all employees and contractors of the Company and all its subsidiary entities, and the procedures outlined in this policy apply as far as possible to any person, including a member of the general public, who make a report under this policy.

This policy sets out:

- when you will be protected for speaking up about misconduct;
- the protections that may be provided to you if you speak up; and
- how disclosures made under this policy will be handled by the Company.

All officers, employees, and contractors of the Company and its subsidiary entities, wherever they are based, must comply with this policy.

Officers and employees of the Company and its subsidiary entities based outside Australia may also be subject to additional local whistleblower requirements in the country in which they are based.

This policy is available in the Corporate Governance section of our website: www.nexted.com.au

This policy protects those who are entitled to whistleblower protection under the Australian whistleblower laws (see section 12 of this policy).

2) Who is protected under this policy?

You will be protected under this policy if:

- you are one of the individuals set out in section 3;
- you disclose information about the type of matters set out in section 4; and
- you disclose that information to one of the persons set out in section 5.

We encourage you to contact the Company's Whistleblower Protection Officer if you have any questions about making a disclosure or this policy generally.

In some cases, you may wish to obtain independent legal advice:

- before making a disclosure (for example, if you are thinking about making a disclosure to a Member of Parliament or a journalist); or
- if you feel you have suffered detriment because you made a disclosure, including if you wish to seek compensation or remedies in court for potentially detrimental conduct or a failure to protect your identity.

That communication with your legal adviser will also be protected under the Australian whistleblower laws (irrespective of the outcome of that advice).

3) Who can make a disclosure?

You can make a disclosure that qualifies for protection under the Australian whistleblower laws if you are or were:

- an officer or employee of the Company, including permanent, part-time, fixed term or casual employees or interns;
- a supplier of goods and services to the Company (whether paid or unpaid), including their employees (for example, contractors, consultants, service providers and business partners);
- an associate of the Company; or
- a parent, grandparent, child, grandchild, sibling, spouse or dependent of any of those people. You may choose to disclose anonymously if you wish.

4) What can a disclosure be about?

We encourage people to make disclosures about a broad range of matters. Whilst not all matters will qualify for protection under the Australian whistleblower laws, we will treat all disclosures made under this policy in the same way. However, disclosures cannot be made under this policy relating solely to personal work-related grievances.

To be protected under the Australian whistleblower laws, you must make an eligible disclosure and must have reasonable grounds for that disclosure. You can still qualify for protection if your disclosure turns out to be incorrect, but you will not be protected if you make a deliberately false disclosure.

Disclosures do not have to be about breaking the law. Eligible disclosures can be about misconduct or an improper situation or circumstances that you have reasonable grounds to suspect has occurred or is occurring in relation to Company.

Some examples of matters that are eligible disclosures are:

- conduct that amounts to a criminal offence or contravention of the Corporations Act 2001 or Australian Securities and Investments Commission Act 2001;
- conduct that is a Commonwealth criminal offence punishable by more than 12 months' imprisonment;
- illegal conduct, such as fraud, theft, corruption, bribery, criminal damage to property or breaches of work health and safety laws;
- negligence, default, breach of trust and breach of duty;
- improper, unethical or dishonest conduct, such as misuse of company assets, conflicts of interest or conduct which amounts to abuses of authority;
- an activity that poses a significant risk to public safety, people, property, operations or the environment (irrespective of whether it involves a breach of law);
- any conduct that may indicate a systemic issue or problem in relation to the Company;
- any business behaviours or practices that may cause consumer harm;
- conduct that represents a danger to the public or the financial system;
- conduct that represents a significant risk to stability of or confidence in the financial system

(irrespective of whether it involves a breach of law);

- conduct that is damaging to the Company's financial position or reputation;
- misconduct in relation to the Company's tax affairs;
- substantial mismanagement of the Company's resources;
- other misconduct concerning corporate governance, accounting or audit matters;
- engaging in or threatening to engage in detrimental conduct against a person who has made a disclosure or is believed or suspected to have made, or be planning to make, a disclosure;
- conduct that may result in breaches of regulatory requirements; or
- conduct that may jeopardize the protection and security of personal information and data.
- conduct or practices that contravene the Modern Slavery Act 2018, including any actions or inactions that contribute to or condone forced labor, human trafficking, or any other forms of modern slavery within the Company's operations or supply chains.

Personal work-related grievances

A personal work-related grievance is a grievance about an individual's employment that has implications only for the individual personally (such as payroll or remuneration issues, promotion decisions and interpersonal conflicts), but does not have any other significant implications for the Company or relate to conduct about an eligible disclosure as referred to above.

Disclosures about solely personal work-related grievances are not covered by this policy and do not qualify for protection under the Australian whistleblower laws unless they also relate to any detriment or threat of detriment (as explained in section 7) to you.

However, such a disclosure may still qualify for protection if:

- it is a 'mixed' disclosure – meaning it includes information indicating other misconduct beyond your personal circumstances (for example, widespread bullying or harassment);
- the Company has breached employment or other laws punishable by imprisonment for a period of 12 months or more;
- the Company has engaged in conduct that represents a danger to the public;
- you suffer from or are threatened with, detriment for making a disclosure; or
- you seek legal advice or representation about the operation of the Australian whistleblower laws.

If your disclosure is a solely personal work-related grievance, you should make it in accordance with our Dispute Resolution Policy, (as amended and/or updated from time to time), which can be accessed in the Employee & Independent Contractor Handbook.

If you are unsure, we encourage you to make your disclosure under this policy.

5) Who can receive a disclosure?

All of the people listed in this section 5 can receive disclosures that qualify for protection under the Australian whistleblower laws. However, we encourage you to make your disclosure to either of our Whistleblower Protection Officers.

Our Whistleblower Protection Officers are:

General Manager of Group Quality, Accreditation & Compliance	Chair of Audit & Risk Management Committee
Eve Ollerenshaw Telephone: +61 424 141 297 Email: eve.ollerenshaw@nexted.com.au	William Deane Telephone: +61 410 424 373 Email: wdeane@extopartners.com

If you prefer, you can make a disclosure to the following people:

- a member of the NextEd Senior Executive Team;
- any other officer (which includes director and company secretaries) or senior manager of the Company;
- an internal or external auditor (including a member of an audit team conducting an audit on Company); or
- Company's registered tax agent or BAS agent, if the disclosure concerns Company's tax affairs or the tax affairs of an associate of Company, or an employee or officer at Company who has functions or duties relating to its tax affairs and who you consider may be assisted in their role by knowing that information.

6) How can a disclosure be made?

You may make a disclosure at any time to the people identified in section 5 by email, by telephone, by post, or in person. An example form for making a disclosure is attached to this policy.

If you make a disclosure from or to a Company email address, your email may be accessed by certain people within our IT department in accordance with the Company's policies. If you are concerned about those limited circumstances in which your email might be accessed, you may prefer to make your disclosure verbally or by mail.

You can make your disclosure anonymously (and stay anonymous throughout and after any investigation) and still qualify for protection under the Australian whistleblower laws.

7) False or Vexatious Reports

Reports under this policy must be made in good faith and on reasonable grounds. Persons must not make reports of a trivial nature under this policy.

8) Protections for Disclosers

The Company handles any disclosures made to it under this policy to protect disclosers.

Identity Protections

If you make a protected disclosure, it is illegal for anyone to identify you or disclose any information that is likely to lead to you being identified, unless:

- any disclosure of information does not include your identity and is reasonably necessary to investigate your disclosure (but all reasonable steps must be taken to reduce the risk that you will be identified from the information);
- it is necessary to obtain legal advice about your disclosure and the whistleblower laws, in which case, we can pass the information on to our lawyer;
- we need to disclose the information to the Australian Federal Police; the Australian Securities and Investments Commission (ASIC); the Australian Prudential Regulatory Authority (APRA); or the Australian Commissioner of Taxation (ATO), if the disclosure concerns Company's tax affairs or the tax affairs of an associate of Company; or
- you consent to that disclosure.

Confidentiality and Secure Record Keeping

Subject to the exceptions allowed under section 7 of this policy or otherwise by law, the identity of a whistleblower (or information that is likely to lead to their identity becoming known) must be kept confidential at all times during and after the investigation (including in any reporting to the Board or to any persons affected). All persons responsible for or involved in an investigation must take all reasonable steps to reduce the risk that a whistleblower will be identified.

The Company will keep your identity and your disclosure confidential and secure by:

- obscuring your name and identifying features from any internal reporting about your disclosure (unless you agree for your identity to be known);
- limiting access to all paper and electronic documents and materials to those directly involved in managing and investigating the disclosure; and
- ensuring that anyone who is involved in handling and investigating your disclosure is aware of the confidentiality requirements.

Protection from Detriment

The Company is committed to protecting people who make disclosures under this policy.

No-one at the Company (including any officers, employees or contractors) may cause or threaten any detriment to any person because they think a disclosure has been or might be made under this policy.

"Detriment" includes (but is not limited to):

- dismissal of an employee;
- injury of an employee in their employment;
- alteration of an employee's position or duties to their disadvantage;
- discrimination, harassment or intimidation;
- harm or injury including psychological harm, damage to property, reputation or financial position; or
- taking action against a person (including any disciplinary action or imposing a liability) for making a disclosure. However, Company is entitled to take steps that:
- are reasonably necessary to protect you from detriment (for example, moving you to another office to protect you from detriment if you have made a disclosure about your immediate work area); or

- relate to managing unsatisfactory work performance in line with Company's performance
- management framework.

Protection from Civil, Criminal and Administrative Liability

If you make a protected disclosure, you will also be protected from any of the following:

- civil liability – for example, any legal action against you for breach of an employment contract, duty of confidentiality or another contractual obligation;
- criminal liability – for example, prosecution for unlawfully releasing information or otherwise using your disclosure against you in a prosecution (other than for making a deliberately false disclosure); and
- administrative liability – for example, disciplinary action for making a disclosure. However, you may be liable for any personal misconduct revealed by your disclosure.

Compensation and other Remedies

You may seek compensation and other remedies through the courts if:

- you suffer loss, damage or injury because of a disclosure; and
- the Company failed to take reasonable precautions and exercise due diligence to prevent detrimental conduct.

Support and Practical Protections

The Company has in place processes for protecting, supporting and monitoring the welfare of anyone who makes a disclosure. This includes risk assessment of any potential detriment, work adjustment considerations and support services such as stress management strategies which may include counselling. Confidential counselling is available to employees and students through the Employee Assistance Program and Student Assistance Program.

Provision of your Identity to a Court or Tribunal

No-one at the Company may disclose or produce to a court or tribunal any information or documents which disclose your identity (or information likely to lead to your identification) without first seeking the advice of a Whistleblower Protection Officer or the Company Secretary.

If you make a protected disclosure and become aware that a court or tribunal has requested disclosure of your identity or production of documents containing your identity (or information likely to lead to your identification), you may apply to the court or tribunal for an order protecting your identity.

9) Investigations of Disclosures Under this Policy

When you make a disclosure under this policy, your disclosure will typically be investigated as follows and by maintaining confidentiality in accordance with section 8:

Step 1	The person who receives your disclosure will provide the information to the Whistleblower Protection Officer as soon as practicable, ensuring your identity is protected (in accordance with section 8), unless you have consented otherwise.
Step 2	The Whistleblower Protection Officer (or Company Secretary) will determine whether your disclosure is covered by this policy and, if appropriate, appoint an investigator with no personal interest in the matter to investigate. If required, an external investigator will be appointed to ensure the investigation is handled fairly and independently or where specialist skills or expertise are necessary.
Step 3	The investigator(s) will conduct the investigation in an objective and fair manner, ensuring that they give any employee who is mentioned in the disclosure an opportunity to respond to the allegations prior to any adverse findings being made against them. Those employees are also entitled to access the support services referred to in section 8. If you can be contacted (including through anonymous channels), we will give you regular updates on the status of the investigation as appropriate, with the frequency and timing of such updates depending on the nature of your disclosure. The Company will aim to conclude the investigations within six months of receiving your disclosure. But that time may vary depending on the nature of your disclosure.
Step 4	The outcome of the investigation will be reported to the Board (protecting your identity, if applicable) and may, if the Whistleblower Protection Officer considers appropriate, be shared with you and any persons affected.

We encourage you to raise any concerns you have about the investigation of your disclosure, your treatment or any aspects of this policy with the Whistleblower Protection Officer or the person to whom you made your disclosure, and we will consider whether any further steps need to be taken.

10) Reporting to the Board or its Delegated Committee

The Whistleblower Protection Officer must provide the Board or its delegated committee at least quarterly reports on all active whistleblower matters, including information on:

- the number and nature of disclosures made in the last quarter (for example, by who, who to and matter type);
- how disclosures were reported;
- the status of any investigations underway;

- the frequency of communications with disclosers;
- the outcomes of completed investigations and actions taken; and
- the timeframes for responding and investigating disclosures.

The Board or its delegated committee will also be immediately informed of any material incidents reported under this policy, including any information that may be materially price sensitive in accordance with the Company's Continuous Disclosure Policy.

11) Training

Our Whistleblower Protection Officer and all eligible recipients of disclosures must attend compulsory training organised by the Company on responding appropriately to disclosures made under this policy.

Our employees must attend compulsory training on our whistleblower program which will include information on how to make a disclosure, what the disclosure can be about, to whom a disclosure can be made, the protections and support available and when further information or independent legal advice might be sought.

12) How this Policy Interacts with Whistleblower Laws

Australian Whistleblower Laws

By making a disclosure in accordance with this policy, you may be protected under the Australian whistleblower laws if the type of matter you disclose is protected by those laws.

While this policy principally deals with internal disclosures, the protections afforded by the Australian whistleblower laws also include some types of disclosure made to external parties, such as:

- legal representatives, to obtain advice or representation about the Australian whistleblower laws;
- ASIC, APRA or the ATO; or
- Members of Parliament or journalists, where you have reasonable grounds to believe that making the further disclosure would be in the public interest or the information concerns a substantial and imminent danger to the health or safety of one or more persons or to the natural environment, but only where prior disclosure has been made to either ASIC, APRA or the ATO as well as Company in certain circumstances.

It is important you understand strict criteria apply and we recommend you obtain legal advice before making a disclosure to one of these people.

For more information about the Australian whistleblower laws (including how to make a disclosure directly to ASIC or the ATO), see the information available on the ASIC website (including Information Sheet 239 How ASIC handles whistleblower reports) and the ATO website.

Whistleblower Laws Outside of Australia

If you are a Company officer, employee or contractor based outside Australia, you may also have protections and obligations under the whistleblower laws in the country in which you are based, including:

- a. Whistleblower laws France, the Sapin II Act;
- b. Whistleblower laws Spain, the Spanish Data Protection Act; and
- c. Whistleblower laws Italy, Decree 231 Model.

13) Non-compliance with this Policy

Any breach of this policy by an officer, employee or contractor will be taken seriously by the Company and may be the subject of a separate investigation and/or disciplinary action.

A breach of this policy may also amount to a civil or criminal contravention under the applicable whistleblower laws, giving rise to significant penalties.

14) Optional Disclosure Form

The Board of Directors of NextEd Group Limited (ACN 105 012 066) and is committed to a culture of compliance, ethical behaviour and good corporate governance and has created this policy to encourage individuals to report wrongdoing where they genuinely believe it has occurred.
